

HAGUE CONVENTION PRIMER & ADOPTION 201

INTERNATIONAL
CHRISTIAN ADOPTIONS

A Voice of HOPE for Children Worldwide

General Information on HAGUE

- Concluded May 29, 1993 in the Netherlands
- US signed Hague in 1994 – Several steps are needed to formally be a Hague country.
- The Intercountry Adoption Act of 2000 was the necessary US legislation for the US to move forward after signing.
- Department of State was named the US Central Authority.

Hague is a fairly straightforward document.

Hague allows for great flexibility in implementation.

Hague Treaty has 48 “articles” which provide for the basic tenets of the Hague.

Hague Permanent Bureau in Netherlands has published Guides to Good Practice, which offers technical guidance and clarification.

Intercountry Adoption Act (IAA)

- The Intercountry Adoption Act is the implementing legislation to allow the US to become a Hague country.
- This named the US Department of State as the US Central Authority.

Universal Accreditation Act (UAA)

- The UAA went into effect July 14, 2014 – 18 months after it was signed into law. (There are still transition cases.)
- UAA was designed to address the two-tiered adoption system of Hague standards versus non-Hague standards.
- UAA requires Hague compliance for ALL international adoptions by US citizens.

UAA Transitional Rules

- The UAA's transition rule states that the accreditation rules do not apply in two kinds of cases:
 - When the I-600 or the I-600A has been filed before 180 days from the date of signature; the UAA refers to the signature date as enactment; and
 - When prospective adoptive parents have initiated an adoption process in a foreign country by filing an appropriate application (appropriate to be determined by the Department of State), also before 180 days from enactment of the UAA.

Accreditation

After September 2025, any agency wishing to provide inter-country child placement programs for ANY country must be accredited or approved for Hague by CEAS

- Home Study agencies may still be supervised or exempt, rather than accredited.
- “Independent” adoptions will not be permitted from any country, although parents may still act on their own behalf. (This is very tricky.)

Getting to the Regulations...

Documenting the Child is an Orphan

Two General Categories (distinct and separate)

1. No parents because of the death or disappearance of, abandonment or desertion by, or separation or loss from its parents; or
2. Sole or surviving parent is unable to provide proper care and has, in writing, irrevocably released the child.

Consideration of Stepparents

- Petitioner is responsible to show that in the sending country a step parent does not have a legal parent-child relationship.
- Must be considered as a parent if stepparent has adopted the child or if under the law a marriage automatically gives parent-child relationship or stepparent has filed for legal custody.

- Age – under 16 or under 18 if the natural sibling of an adopted child in the same family
- Death – death certificate, if available
- Disappearance
 - Unaccountably passed out of child's life
 - Whereabouts unknown
 - No reasonable hope of reappearance
 - Reasonable effort to locate the parent
 - Decree from a court or other authority making the child a ward of the state and unconditionally divesting the parent(s) of all parental rights

- Abandonment

- Parents have willfully forsaken all parental rights, obligations and claims to the child, as well as all control over or possession of the child without intending to transfer there rights to any specific person.
- Not only the intention to surrender, but the act.
- A release by the birth parent to the adoptive parents is NOT abandonment.
- A release to a third party for care in anticipation of an adoption does NOT qualify unless the third party is authorized under the child welfare laws of the state of origin to act in such capacity.
- Temporarily placing a child in orphanage does NOT qualify.
- A declaration by a foreign authority that the parent has abandoned the child is NOT sufficient for immigration purposes.
- Primary evidence is a decree from a court or competent authority that unconditionally divests the parent(s) of parental rights to the child.

- Desertion

- Willfully forsaken the child and refused to carry out normal parental rights and obligations and as result the child has become a ward of a competent authority.
- Does NOT mean the parents have disappeared, but they refuse to carry out parental duties.
- Differs from abandonment in that parent has not taken steps to divest themselves of parental duties, but parent's inaction has caused local authority to step in and assume custody of child.
- Primary evidence – Decree from court or other competent authority making the child a ward of the state by virtue of such desertion and unconditionally divesting parents of all parental rights.

- Separation

- Involuntary severance of the child from his/her parent(s) by action of a competent authority for good cause.
- Often called termination and often occurs because of child abuse or neglect or authorities determine parent(s) to be unfit.
- Parents must have been properly notified and granted opportunity to contest such action.
- Must be permanent and unconditional.
- Primary evidence – decree from a court or other competent authority and by virtue of such separation unconditionally divests the parent(s) of all parental rights.

- Loss

- Involuntary severance or detachment of the child from the parents in a permanent manner such that as caused by a natural disaster, civil unrest, etc., as verified by competent authority.
- Primary evidence – Decree from a court or competent authority and by virtue of such loss unconditionally divests parent(s) of parental rights.

- Irrevocable Release by Sole or Surviving Parent
 - Incapable of providing proper care and has, in writing, irrevocably released the child for emigration and adoption in accordance with the sending state's laws.
 - Only circumstance where a child may be released directly by birth parent to adoptive parent(s).
 - Surviving parent – child's living parent when child's other parent has died. Death certificate required.
 - Sole parent is defined as the mother if:
 - Child born out of wedlock
 - Child not legitimated under laws of child's or father's residence
 - Child has not acquired a stepparent
 - The natural father of the child is unknown, has disappeared, abandoned or deserted the child; or has in writing irrevocably released the child for emigration and adoption

Sole or Surviving Parent

- Incapable of Providing Proper Care
 - Unable to provide for the child's basic needs, consistent with the local standards of the sending country.
 - Determination not limited to economic concerns
 - Could be because of extreme poverty, medical, mental or emotional difficulties or long term incarceration.
 - Release must be in writing and in compliance with sending country's laws.
 - Release or relinquishment must be in a language that the parent is capable of reading and signed by the parent.
 - Release must be irrevocable and without stipulations or conditions which would cause custody to revert to the biological parent.
 - May identify the person to whom bio parent is releasing the child, including the adoptive parent(s).
 - If parent is illiterate, but in an interview can establish that he or she had full knowledge of the contents of the document and understood the release, the document may be treated as primary evidence.

Difference Between a Convention Adoptee and an Orphan

- Orphan - if there are two bio parents they must have surrendered the child to an intermediary, and you must prove a single parent is unable to support the child.
- Convention Adoptee - no intermediary is required and you must prove that two bio parents can't support the child. No such proof needed for a sole parent.

Evidence of Adoption

- Documentation from a governmental agency, a court of competent jurisdiction, an adoption agency or an orphanage authorized to act in such a capacity.
- Evidence that petitioners or their agent obtained legal custody.
- A proxy adoption or simple adoption may still serve as legal custody for allowing child to come to US and be adopted.
- If less than a full adoption, however, the custody must be permanent and the rights of any living natural parent have been irrevocably terminated.

Evidence of Adoption (continued)

- Child Adopted Abroad
 - Legible, certified copy of final adoption decree (IR-3 or IR-4)
 - Evidence that at least one parent saw the child before or during the adoption (IR-3)
- Child to be Adopted in US
 - Evidence of legal custody (IR-4)
 - Irrevocable release of the orphan for emigration and adoption from the person, organization or competent authority that had the immediately previous legal custody or control.

Highlight of Important Articles

While recognizing that all the articles are important to the convention as a whole, some articles are referred to more frequently with regard to required documentation.

The most frequently cited articles will be summarized and details offered of how these articles are referred to in the official US Hague process.

Article 4 Summary

Article 4 requires that the State of origin (sending country) of the child has established that:

- A. The child is adoptable;
- B. Placement within the country of origin has been duly considered and ICA is in the child's best interests.

Article 4 deals extensively with CONSENTS (when utilized) for adoption and requires the following:

- A. All applicable parties whose consent is required have been counseled on the impact of their consent, specifically addressing whether or not an adoption will result in the legal termination of the relationship between the child and the family of origin. (More information on simple vs. full adoption will be given later in presentation.)
- B. Consents have been freely given, in the required legal form, and evidenced in writing
- C. Consents have NOT been induced by payment or other compensation
- D. Consents have not been withdrawn
- E. Consent of a mother is only given AFTER the birth of the child

Article 4 Summary (continued)

Article 4 further delineates that depending on the age and maturity of the child the following is required:

- A. The child has been counseled and informed of the effect of adoption.
- B. Consideration is given to the child's wishes and opinions.
- C. The child's consent to the adoption, where such consent is required, has been given freely, in required legal form and evidenced in writing.
- D. Such consent has not been induced by payment or compensation of any kind.

Practicalities of Article 4

- CA of country of origin determines Article 4 compliance.
- Article 4 requirements are covered in the “Article 16 Report” issued by the CA of the country of origin specific to the child.
- Article 16 will be covered!

Article 5 Summary

Article 5 requires that the receiving country's CA has determined the following:

- A. The prospective adoptive parents are eligible and suited to adopt.
- B. The prospective adoptive parents have been educated appropriately.
- C. The child is or will be authorized to enter and reside permanently in the receiving country.

Article 5 Practicalities

- Adoptive parents may NOT proceed with an adoption or guardianship order until after Article 5 is issued.
- The I-800A is the USCIS required application to pre-approve the parents as eligible for a Hague adoption.
- The I-800 is filed with USCIS after official referral and acceptance. The I-800 is child-specific and must be accompanied by the applicable supporting documents.
- USCIS issues a PROVISIONAL APPROVAL if they determine that the child appears to meet the definition of a “convention adoptee”.
- The family’s approval and the child’s provisional approval are reviewed by the US consular official and if approved an ARTICLE 5 letter is submitted to the sending country’s CA.
- Please Note, final visa approval is not guaranteed at this point.
- The adoption or request for guardianship with intent to adopt may proceed following Article 5 letter.

Article 16 Summary

An Article 16 Report is issued if the CA of the country of origin is satisfied that the child is adoptable.

The Article 16 Reports includes the following:

- A. Information about the child's identity, adoptability, background, social environment, family history, medical history including that of the child's family, and any special needs of the child;
- B. Gives due consideration to the child's upbringing and to his or her ethnic, religious and cultural background;
- C. Ensures that consents are compliant with Article 4
- D. Determines, based on the reports relating to the child and the prospective adoptive parents, whether the proposed placement is in the best interests of the child.

The report shall be submitted to the receiving state CA (often through the accredited entity), along with proof of consents & the reasons for the determination.

Article 16 Practicalities

- Article 16 must be issued by the sending state's CA before the prospective adoptive family can submit the I-800.
- Article 16 is intended to be comprehensive in nature; however, the quality of the information and accuracy varies.

Article 17 Summary

For a sending country to move forward with an adoption, the following must have occurred:

- A. The adoptive family agrees to the prospective adoption.
- B. The Central Authority of the receiving State has approved the decision.
- C. The CA's of both States have agreed that the adoption may proceed.
- D. It has been determined, in accordance with Article 5, that the prospective adoptive parents are eligible & suited to adopt and that the child is or will be authorized to enter and reside permanently in the receiving State.

Article 17 Practicalities

- Article 17 is issued by the sending country CA or the receiving country dependent on the countries involved.
- Article 17 must be issued BEFORE an adoption proceeds or the Hague adoption process is not in compliance.

Article 23 Summary

Article 23 requires that an adoption made in accordance with the convention be recognized in other countries also party to the Hague.

A Certificate of the adoption shall be given by the sending country's competent authorities, whose identity and function have been disclosed to the Hague Permanent Bureau.

Article 29 Summary

Article 29 prohibits contact between prospective adoptive parents and the child's biological parents or any other person who has care of the child until after Articles 4 & 5 are met. The only exception to this provision is with regard to relative adoptions or “unless the contact is in compliance with the conditions established by the competent authority of the State of origin”.

Article 29 - Practicalities

- In non-relative cases where contact between the child's caregivers and prospective adoptive parents have occurred prior to Articles 4 & 5 this is not problematic IF this is routinely permitted by the sending country's laws/regulations. (No additional statements to this effect are likely to be requested by the US.)
- If, however, the contact rests outside the norm (as is most often the case) the US will most likely request an Article 29 letter from the sending country's CA.

Article 29 Risks

- ASP's are often approached about children from Hague countries whom families have met on overseas missions, etc.
- Unless considered normal and permitted these cases do not meet Article 29's prohibition against contact on the whole, but can be approved if the CA will in writing express that the contact was permissible.
- Any family wishing to pursue such an adoption must be clearly warned of the risks posed by the contact and the ASP should be prepared to petition for the approval of the particular contact.
- The ASP must be confident that the contact did not include inducements – monetary or otherwise.
